LETTER FROM O. A. HALE & CO., SAN JOSE:

SAN JOSE (Cal.), November, 1883.

MESSRS. HALE BROS. & CO., Sacramento. GENTLEMEN: We have decided to close out our entire stock of J. & P. Coats' Thread at the reduced price of 7 spools for 25 cents. Our decision in this matter has been prompted from the fact that some of our competitors have already established and advertised this price, claiming the O. N. 1. and Clark's Mile End are superior in quality and strength, and we are of the opinion, on account of numerous complaints of customers, that they are right in their conclusions. With all due respect to the gentlemanly representatives of the Coats' Thread, we must adhere to our well-known rule of keeping only the best goods in the market, and the sooner the sale of Coats' Thread is discontinued, and the stock on hand turned into money, the better. The loss will be trivial in dollars and cents compared with the loss of patronage we might incur by not placing on sale the best brands procurable. If upon receipt of this letter your views and experiences are of a similar unsatisfactory nature, you can take such steps in regard to clearing out your stock of J. & P. Coats cotton as you may deem proper.

O. A. HALE & CO., per L. O. B. Very truly yours,

We shall limit each customer to the purchase of SEVEN SPOOLS at any one time, as it is our intention to distribute it to those of our customers who can use it, and not to sell it to dealers to sell again, thereby depriving our regular customers of the reduction intended for DANVILEE (Va.), November 223.—A committee of forty, appointed the investigate the facts connected with the riots on the 3d inst., organized on the 12th and appointed the proper sub-committees. All persons having information relative to the matters to be investigated were publicly requested to appear before a sub-committee and tes-ity. The sub-committee regularly attended to its duties from the morning of the 13th to the evening of the 21st, during which time thirty-seven witnesses were examined. It is said that the witnesses for the most part were known to the committee personally and represented all classes and vocations; that they were intelligent and theroughly reliable. The committee of the ill-feeling existing between the blacks and whites, the committee states that the negroes were the aggr. ssors. The report adds: "Two days before the election, circulars signed by prominent citizens and leaders of both political parties, were issued, guaranteeing every person, without regard to color or party, the free and indisturbed right of voting. No violence, or threat or intimidation whatever was shown toward negro or coalition voters, but, on the contrary, such voters were repeatedly assured by citizens, police and the military officers sent to Danville by the Governor, that they would be protected in their right to vote as they choose. Election day was quiet, without any disturbance or difficulty at any precinct or elsewhere in the town, and the election itself was honestly conducted, free and fair in all respects. The negroes, as a body, refrained from voting, under the advice and command of their party leaders, while others voted the coalition to ticket without hindrance from any quarter."

The Speakership of the Next House. WASHINGTON, November 22d — There has been aparently no change in the Speakership fight. Only aree or four Democratic members came to town esterday. The friends of Carlisle accuse Randall of yesterday. The friends of Carlisle accuse Randall of bringing the sectional question into the fight, and Randall's supporters deny that he has had anything to do with precipitating this issue. Randall is taking an aggressive position, and Carlisle's friends are put upon the defensive as regards nearly every prominent issue in the controversy. Cox declares he will not get out of the race. He is indignant that it should be thought that he has an idea of withdrawing. Randall's supporters say it is immaterial to them whether Cox does get out of the fight or not, and Mr. Carlisle's backers talk of the New Yorker's candidacy as shou h it is a practical joke which should be explained immediately. Glascock of California, so Mr. Carlisle says, told him last night that he should have his (Glascock's) vote. It is of California, so Mr. Carlisle says, told him last night that he should have his (Glascock's) vote. It is thought that in the final break-up California's vote will be divided, Rosecrans, Glascock and Sumner voting for Carlisle, and Tully, Budd and Henley voting for Eandall.

The publication of an interview with Walter Phelps anent the nomination of Keifer by the Republicans as their candidate for Speaker, has caused considerable talk about the disposition of this empty honor. If Robinson had not been elected Governor of Massachusetts he would have been unanimously the nominee of the Republican cancus. In the case of Keifer, his nomination would mean more than a mere compliment; it would mean an indorsement of his course as Speaker, and an indorsement that many Republicans would be loth to give, and to choose Hiscock, who was defeated in the

Down with Low-necked Dresses.

New York, November 22d.—It is stated that be-fore the Roman Catholic authorities of St. Patrick's Cathedral, in this city, would consent to the mar-riage of the daughter of Theodore Moss to Mr. Flynn last evening, they required the bridal party to notify their lady friends not to appear in low-necked dresses. The dress of the ladies at the last wedding in the Cathedral so shocked the Car-dinal that he almost decided never to have an even-my wedding again.

dervishes to treat with Hicks Pasha's native officers, saying to the Egyptians, "We, like you, are Mussulmans. Why figh.? Surrender." The dervishes received them by a volley, and then the battle commenced. Four thousand soldiers, now scattered among the small forts on the Nile, will be concentrated at Khartoum, where there are already 2,000 soldiers in the Soudan. The following officers are with the expedition: Colonel Farquhar, chief of staff; Majors Warner, Zeckendorf and Massey; Captains Heath and Walker; Surgeon-Major Rosenberg; Lieutenant-Colonels Coloborne and Coilongan, and Major Martin. The latter commanded the cavalry. The catastrophe seems for the moment to have wholly paralyzed the Egyptian Government, and unless very speedy action is taken it is feared revolt, acting in concert with Mahdi. The latter revolt, acting in concert with Mahdi. The latter thought to be near Khattoum. If that place shoul be captured, there would be no good defensible position between Mahdi and Cairo, except Minich believes that Mahdi will rest content with the quest of Soudan. It is feared that Turkey will in-terfere and insist on reconquering the lost province. Neither the English nor French wish this, and the prospect thus bristles with serious complications.

He remarked, "If I had not mistaken the pistol for a self-cocker, you (Foute) would have got to hell several hours before me." Taylor is but 21 years of age, but seems to have no fear of the gallows. The execution will be private. The crime committed by his two elder brothers and himself was one of the most atrocious and daring ever committed in the State.

bly suffer amputation. THE CLOSE OF THE GLACIAL PERIOD.

This last consideration suggests a question which might afford scope for another address of an hour's duration—the question how long a time has elapsed since the close of the glacial period. Recently the opinion has been gaining ground that the close of been made to capture him, but without success. It is supposed he lives in one of the numerous caves in the vicinity. This morning he went to the house of George Powell, soon after that gentleman had gone to his work. Howling like a wild beast and frothing at the mouth, he attacked Mrs. Powell with his club, tracturing her skull and otherwise injuring her. He then picked up her only child, a bey about five ye rs of age, and darted into the woods, carrying it screaming in his arms. A neighbor passing the house shortly afterward found Mrs. Powell in a critical condition, but able to tell what had happened. A man started at once for the nearest town and organized a party to pursue the strange creating and after following lead to this conclusion: The amount of atmospheric decay of rocks and of denudation in general, which have occurred since the close of the glacial period, are scarcely appreciable; little erosion of river-valleys or of coast-terraces has occurred. They soon struck a trail, and after following lead to this conclusion: The amount of atmospheric decay of rocks and of denudation in g then broken, and his army annihilated. The English officers with the Egyptian army fought gallantly. The European who escaped is thought to be O'Donovan, or Frank Vezetelly of the London Graphic. Hicks Pasha had 1,000 soldiers and 2,000 camp followers. The Arabs numbered 20,000.

Another report of the fight says that Mahdi sent dervishes to treat with Hicks Pasha's mative officers, as in the Egyptians. "We like you are Muscaping to the Egyptians." We like you are Muscaping to the Egyptians. than six thousand or seven thousand years origin and early history of man. questions cannot be discussed in the closing sentences of an hour's address. I shall only draw from them one practical inference. Since the comparatively short postclude the whole of human history, we are but new-comers on the earth, and therefore have had little opportunity to solve the great problems which it presents to us. But this is not all. Geology as a science scarcely dates from a century ago. We have reason for surprise, in these circumstances, that it has learned so much, but for equal surprise that so many persons appear to think it a complete and fullwhich is only six hours distant from Cairo. No one grown science, and that it is entitled to speak with confidence on all the great mysteries of the earth that have been hidden from the generations before us. been extended imperceptibly into writing and printing, with results that threaten to supersede "would" altogether, and to replace it most improperly by "had." of our ablest writers have fallen into this Chicago, November 2:d.—A Daily News special tells the following story, suppressing names: A leading London banker's daughter ran away from home one year ago, in company with a professional gambler, and came to New York, where they lived together till a short time ago, when, fearing detectives sent out by the girl's father, they came to Chicago, where they have been living on Haistead street. The gambler's luck failed here, and he concluded to go further west. He gathered together fourteen girls, who, with the unfortunate English girl, were to be put in a house of ill repute in Omaha. Yesterday he put them on board the train in the guise of an opera company. Just before the train pulled out, the Superintendent of one of the Christian dout, the Superintendent of one of the Christian missions, who had gained the girl's confidence, appeared and took her away from her evil companions. The father was telegraphed for yesterday, and resulting the father was telegraphed for yesterday, and resulting the father was telegraphed for yesterday, and resulting telegraphed for yesterday and resulting telegraphed for yesterday telegraphed for yesterday, and resulting telegraphed for yesterday telegraphed for yesterday, and resulting telegraphed for yesterday inelegancy. Among others, Mr. Thackeray, phase "you had better," it is an improper substitute for "would," though "you had better do so and so" has the small advantage of being more laconic than the synonymous phrase, "It would be better you did so and so." When "had" is followed by "have" its use is still more ungrammatical. Thus, when the Times, March 12, 1879, says, "Sir William Lawson had better have kept to his original proposal," it means that "Sir William Lawson would have done better if he had kept to his original proposal." So, also, the Spectator, March 2, 1879, when it wrote, "The motion had better be withdrawn," was guilty of a permissible colloquialism, but was grammatically incorrect, and should have written, "It would be better if the motion were withdrawn." like manner the Examiner fell into the prevalent carelessness when it wrote, March 2, 1879, "If the University of London, after an existence of forty years, cannot produce a competent man, it had better cease to exist."-[Gentleman's Magazine. With all due respect to the gentlemanly representatives of the Coats' Thread, we must adhere to our well-known rule of keeping only the best goods in the market, and the sooner the sale of Coats' Thread is discentinued, and the stock on hand turned into money, the better. The loss will be trivial in dollars and cents compared with the loss of patronage we might incur by not placing on sale the best brands procurable. If upon receipt of this letter your views and experiences are of a similar unsatisfactory nature, you can take such steps in regard to clearing out your stock of J. & P. Coats cotton as you may deem proper.

DANVILLE (Va.), November 22d.—A committee of lorty, appointed to investigate the facts connected with the riots on the 3d inst., organized on the 12th with the riots on the 3d inst., organized on the 12th and appointed the proper sub-committees. All persons having information relative to the matters to be investigated were publicly requested to appear before a sub-committee and testify. The sub-committee regularly attended to its duties from the morning of the 13th to the evening of the 21st, during which time thirty-seven witnesses were examined. It is said that the witnesses for the most part were known to the committee personally and representations. were known to the committee personally and represented all classes and vocations; that they were intelligent and thoroughly reliable. The committee, it is reported, makes a careful review of all the facts connected with the riot. After speaking of the ill-feeling existing between the blacks and whites, the committee states that the negroes were the aggr.ssors. The report adds: "Two days before the election, circulars signed by prominent citizens and leaders of both political parties, were issued, guaranteeing every person, without regard to color or party, the free and undisturbed right of voting. No violence, or threat or intimidation what ever was shown toward negro or coalition voters, but, on the contrary, such voters were repeatedly were known to the committee personally and reut, on the contrary, such voters were repeatedly sasured by citizens, police and the military officers sent to Danville by the Governor, that they would be protected in their right to vote as they chose. The Speakership of the Next House. WASHINGTON, November 22d — There has been aparently no change in the Speakership fight. Only nree or four Democratic members came to town esterday. The friends of Carlisle accuse Kandallof inging the sectional question into the fight, and indall's supporters deny that he has had anything Randall's supporters deny that he has had anything to do with precipitating this issue. Randall is taking an eggressive position, and Carlisle's friends are put upon the defensive zs regards nearly every prominent issue in the controversy. Cox declares he will not get out of the race. He is indignant that it should be thought that he has an idea of withdrawing. Randall's supporters say it is immaterial to them whether Cox does get out of the fight or not, and Mr. Carlisle's backers talk of the New Yorker's candidacy as thou h it is a practical joke which should be explained immediately. Glascock of California, so Mr. Carlisle says, told him last night that he should have his (Glascock's) vote. The publication of an interview with Walter Phelps anent the nomination of Keifer by the Republicans as their candidate for Speaker, has caused considerable talk about the disposition of this empty honor. If Robinson had not been elected Governor of Massachusetts he would have been unanimously the nominee of the Republican cancus. In the case of Keifer, his nomination would mean more than a mere compliment; it would mean an indorsement of his course as Speaker, and an indorsement that many Republicans would be loth to give, and to choose Hiscock, who was defeated in the nomination by trickery, might seem invidious. There appears to be, however, no objections to the nomination of Kelly.

Acts of a Madman.

CHICAGO, November 22d.—The Tribune's Pit'sburg special of the 21st says: For some time the citizens of the southern part of Ohio county, W. Va., about twenty miles from Wheeling, have been trying to capture a strange man who occasionally made his appearance at isolated homesteads, generally in the absence of the ran of the house, and by brandishing a large club terrorized the women folks into giving him food. He always appeared dressed in skins, and was never known to speak. He was a factor of the county of skins, and was never known to speak. He was of gigantic stature and ferocious aspect, and has been a terror to the community. Several attempts have been made to capture him, but without success. It been made to capture him, but without success. It is supposed he lives in one of the numerous caves in the vicinity. This morning he went to the house of George Powell, soon after that gentleman had gone to his work. Howing like a wild beast and frothing at the mouth, he attacked Mrs. Powell with his club, fracturing her skull and otherwise injuring her. He then picked up her only child, a boy about five ye rs of age, and datted into the woods, carrying it screaming in his arms. A neighbor passing the house shortly afterward found Mrs. Powell in a critical condition, but able to tell what had happened. A man started at once for the nearest town and organized a party to pursue the strange creature and rescue the child. They soon struck a trail, and after following it for about five miles, came upon the body of the boy, whose brains had been dashed out against a tree. Two of the party returned to Powell's with the child and the rest continued the search for the man, but at last accounts they had not succeeded in overtaking him. There are several theories as to who he is. Some think he is a madman. All know he is a dangerous character and must be killed or captured.

THE CLOSE OF THE GLACIAL PERIOD. This last consideration suggests a question which might afford scope for another address of an hour's duration—the question now long a time has elapsed since the close of the glacial period. Recently the opinion has been gaining ground that the close of the ice age is very recent. Such reasons as the following lead to this conclusion: The amount of atmospheric decay of rocks and curred since the close of the glacial period, are scarcely appreciable; little erosion of river-valleys or of coast-terraces has occurred. The calculated recession of waterfalls and of production of lake-ridges lead to the same conclusion. So do the recent state of bones and shells in the pleistocene deposits and the perfectly modern facies of their fossils. On such evidence the cessation of the glacial cold and settlement of our continents at their present levels are events which may have occurred not more then broken, and his army annihilated. The English officers with the Egyptian army fought gallantly. The European who escaped is thought to be O'Donovan, or Frank Vezetelly of the London Graphic. Hicks Pasha had 1,000 solders and 2,000 camp followers. The Arabs numbered 20,000.

Another report of the fight says that Mahdi sent dervishes to treat with Hicks Pasha's native officers, saying to the Egyptians, "We, like you, are Mussulmans. Why fight? Surrender." The dervishes received them by a volley, and then the battle commenced. Four thousand soldiers, now scattered among the small forts on the Nije will be concessed. than six thousand or seven thousand years menced. Four thousand soldiers, now scattered among the small forts on the Nile, will be concentrated at Khartoum, where there are already 2,000 troops. manent Organization. Following the proceedings of the Fruit Growers convention, published yesterday, the report of Dr. S. F. Chapin, State Inspector of Fruit Pests, con ning the progress of efforts to exterminate the nemies of fruit, during the past year, was read It was quite long and treated the subject exhaustively. Caterpillars, he says, have done but little damage during the past years. Finely pulverized soil thrown over the trees has been found a successful remedy. The woolly aphis has caused considerable trouble throughout the State. Caustic soda in strong solution, applied to the collar of the trees and the large roots near it, is an efficacious remedy. In a Santa Cruz orchard a simple remedy was applied, namely, that of allowing hogs to dig about the orchards. Where the hogs were permitted to run the aphis could not be found. The red spider has caused much trouble. Whale oil soap and sulphur mixture and other decoctions have been experimented with successfully. A constant and troublesome enemy of fruit trees is mildew. Carbonate of soda is effective against it. One of the most destructive pests is the codlin moth. The "starving out" process about to be adopted in San Diego county is perhaps the best one known. It is to destroy the young fruit upon which the moth feeds. It finds a safe resort in vines grown between rows of orchard trees, and for damage during the past years. Finely pulverized which the moth feeds. It finds a safe resort in vines grown between rows of orchard trees, and for that reason, if for no other, the ground between the trees should be kept clear and clean. Gresshoppers have committed extensive depredations in portions of the State, especially upon pears, apricots and lemons. The different species of fungi have rendered worthless many trees, and mildew is another enemy of the fruit-grower. Carbonate of soda may be successfully applied. The scale pest was also carefully considered, and the importance of carnest work for its extermination was pointed out. The orange men of the San Gabriel district have assessed themselves five cents for every tree, and thus raised a fund of over $5,000, which is being used to assist the efforts of the orchardists in exterminating the dreaded scale pest. The report contained much statistical information of interest to the Convention.

At its conclusion F. C. De Long, of Marin, th At its conclusion F. C. De Long, of Marin, the wher of several extensive orchards, opened the discussion upon the report, taking up the subject of he coddin moth. Two methods of destroying the dilin moth were described. One was to fasten to be trees tin cans partially filled with liquid. The noth flies or drops into the can and is thus decroyed. Another method is to set a number of mps in pans of water, and distribute them about he orchard. The lamps, lighted at night, attact the moths, which are stunned by flying against he lamp and fall into the water, where they can be putured and destroyed the next morning. The the lamp and fall into the water, where they can be captured and destroyed the next morning. The moth must be trapped to be killed, as it appears to be a hardy insect.

Mark L. McDonald gave this remedy: Take a common nail keg and coal tar the inside. Through a hole in the bottom of the keg sick a candle. Place the keg under a tree, light the candle at night, and the moths will be found captured in the ne morning.

noth had been presented, Mr. Kelsey explained his nethod to be to turn his hogs into the orchard to eat the grallen fruit, and the hogs gave no moth a eat the fallen fruit, and the hogs gave no moth a chance to climb a tree. Several members expressed the opinion that the only way to exterminate the moths was to dig up and burn all the infested trees. M. M. Estee, of Napa, stated that he had purchased 400 pear trees from San Jose and found they all had scales. He experienced no difficulty in getting rid of the pest by the use of concentrated lye. The lye should be administered with a spray, as when the young trees were dipped they were almost sure to die. Mr. Haines recommended caustic soda. It kills the insects and cleanses the tree from moss.

sure to die. Mr. Haines recommended caustic soda. It kills the insects and cleanses the tree from moss. The proper solution was from one pound and a half to a gallon of water.

Matthew Cooke cautioned horticulturists to be careful during the year to save and care for all the wood ashes they can get. It made a good lye wash, and the cost of preparations was every year becoming a greater tax, but needlessly, as the wood ashes that go to waste in the neighborhood of every orthard, and which could be had for the gathering, will produce a good lye.

W. M. Williams, of Fresno, cautioned orchardists against dipping the young trees into troughs of lye, and instanced a case where 2,000 trees, dipped into a solution of one pound of American lye to a gallon of water, had nearly all been killed. The same strength of lye, applied to the standing tree by the spray process, would not injure the tree at all.

Mr. Williamson, of Sacramento, addressed the Convention on the subject of figs. No other country on the globe, the speaker thought, could produce a finer fig than those produced in the foothills of this State. At an altitude of from 600 to 1,200 feet, the fig tree will grow luxuriantly, with no watering whatever. The common California black fig, which will grow almost anywhere in the State, can be made very profitable. There is no fruit that is so nutritious, or that will sustain life as long as the fig, excepting, perhaps, the orange. Neither is there a fruit that possessos as many medicinal properties, or, after one is accustomed to it, as delicious to the taste, as the fig, with the same exception. The tree will grow readily from cuttings but critical trees.

rties, or, after one is accustomed to it, as delicious of the taste, as the fig, with the same exception. The tree will grow readily from cuttings, but, curiusly, will not bear transplanting. It is an easy tree of grow and requires little care, and insects prey upon it less than any other fruit tree. When it is inderstood properly, the work of handling and cathering the fig is very easy. The ground under he tree should be thoroughly spread with straw and he figs allowed to hang until they fall off or will hop easily by shaking. Then the fruit is nearly dry mough to pack. Most people commit the error of drying them too much. They want to be dried ery little, and should be still soft when packed. Sotwitastanding that there is a much larger quanastanding that there is a much larger quan y of figs thrown on the market than a few years o, the price keeps up. Estimating 100 trees to the re, 300 pounds to the tree, at six cents per pound, res $1,800 to the acre for a fruit that requires less adding and care then any other fruit. The prices we read will greatly inverse, when the cohordists

Mr. Hatch, of the Committee on Fruit Statistics, made a report recommending the formation of a State Association of Fruit Growers as the only means of protecting their interests, and of obtaining reliable information as to the condition and ing reliable information as to the condition and value of the fruit crop. A plan of a society was submitted. It named the Society the "Fruit Growers' Association of the State of California," and declared its object to be to obtain reliable information as to the condition and value of the fruit crop in this State and other countries. A. T. Hatch, William Johnston, L. W. Buck, W. H. Aiken, F. C. De Long, A. Block and W. H. A. Block was in favor of any plan to get informaion, and the closer the corporation the better he

G. W. Fraser, of Elmira, was in favor of con ction to protect the interests of the fruit-growers, ut he thought it would be better to include all agriultural interests in the State Grange, which would obviate the necessity of organizing this society. Mr. Hatch was opposed to the Grange idea. The ruit growers wanted a separate organization. Mr. Haines suggested that the best plan was to ablish a newspaper organ, to be owned by the so-ty, and which should be devoted ent rely to gathreity, and which should be devoted the rely to gathering information for fruit-growers.

After further remarks from others, the report submitted by Mr. Hatch was adopted.

The Convention next discussed the subject of stocks for fruit trees.

Mr. Aiken said he had obtained good results from bridding news and reaches on almost roots. The

Mr. Aiken said he had obtained good results from budding plums and peaches on almond roots. The trees had grown more vigorously than when budded on native stocks. The objection to plum roots was their tendency to sucker. If this could be overcome this root made an excellent stock.

Mr. Hannes stated that the plum root was very unsuccessful in Santa Clara county. He had seen orchards in plum roots whose suckers resembled a hay field. Besides, he mentioned that in an orchard planted with trees budded on plum, peach and amond roots, a heavy wind last year blew plum roots all over, while scarcely any of the others were injured.

Mr. Williams claimed that orchardists were apt to run good things into the ground. Some trees suc-seeded on light soil and some on heavy soil. It had ceeded on light soil and some on heavy soil. It had been demonstrated that a plum stock would not grow well on light soil, but on heavy land was a success. Peach stocks should be planted on light, sandy soil. He thought in budding trees soil should be the main consideration in selecting stocks.

Mr. Jessup said he had been seven years trying to eradicate plum root suckers from his orchard, but had not succeeded yet. There was no doubt that from the manner of sending up shoots a plum root was a weak standard for any tree. He mentioned the St. Julian stock as the beet stock in the world on which to bud the Washington, Quackenbush, Coe's late red and egg plums.

on which to bud the Washington, Quackenbush, Coe's late red and egg plums.

I. A. Wilcox said that soil should be the controlling consideration in stocks. Any spongy root, like the peach, would not do well in damp land. The hard roots, like these of the pear and apple, would succeed well on heavy land. The peach had almost been abandoned on low lands in Santa Claracounty. He had tried the plum stock mentioned by Mr. Jessup, and believed he would eventually be able to cultivate the prune on those roots on the heavy lands of Santa Clara. The root went down instead of spreading out and suckering.

Mr. Williams cautioned members against using Mr. Williams cautioned members against us pricot stocks for plums. It had been his exp apricot stocks for plums. It had been in a experience that in a few years the trees so budded are subject to the gum disease, which s on kills them.
R. B. West stated that the first orchard he had ever planted was budded on plum stocks raised by himself. They were seed of the Horse plum, and had produced the heaviest crop of suckers he had with misrepresentations concerning ms and my conduct that I deem it necessary, to make reply. Firstly-There never was any agreement concerning the digging of earth near the bulkhead or elsewhere made by the Henleys, or either of them, with snyone. Secondly-I was not arrested and fined $100 by Justice Buckingham or any other Justice, nor have I ever been fined by any Court, in any amount, for any crime. Thirdly—I was not in Washington this morning with a shotgun, ner have I ever been there with a shotgun; I did not make any threats to shoot Todhunter or any one also and the person making the above. anyone else, and the person making the above statement willfully lied. Now for the other side of the case: My mother is engaged in the manufacture of brick in Washington. the manufacture of brick in Washington.

My brother and I manage her business. A certain bulkhead was erected about a year ago in the town of Washington to protect that town from inundation from the annual overflow of the Sacramento river. That bulkhead was constructed and placed upon the land of my mother without her leave or consent. The effect of its being so placed is to throw or conduct all the water flowing through the break in the Sacramento river from off a porbreak in the Sacramento river from off a por-tion of the town, over and upon our land, and tion of the town, over and upon our land, and thereby depriving us of the use and occupation of the premises for fully one-third of the year. Last night one of our houses, within 150 yards of the Yolo end of the bridge, occupied by an old Chinaman, was entered by six citizens of Washington, masked with gunny sacks, the Chinaman tied securely, choked and gagged and robbed of the sum of $20. I am campelled to hire Chinaman in my busiam compelled to hire Chinamen in my business, yet they are hooted at, robbed, beaten, almost under the very noses of the citizens of Washington, and still nothing is said by the good (?) citizens of that town. Respectfully ours, WILLIAM HENLEY.

it is next to useless to expect any concessions on this figure. Milling qualities bring an advance.

At the Produce Exchange session this morning there was no quick bidding, and the situation was void of any enchusiastic feeling. Buyer 18:3 contracts of No. 1 White were first offered at $1 92, but it was only when the asking price was reduced to $1 88 that a buyer was found for 100 tons. Seller 83 delivery was parted with to the extent of 200 tons at $1.85 $ ctl.

At the Grain Exchange this afternoon the sales in
No. 1 White were limited to 100 tons, buyer 1883, at $1.862, and 100 do, seller 1883, at $1.84 $1 ctl.

change until he had traveled several squares. Then he made a discovery.
"Why, I gave him a one-dollar bill, and he has given me back over nine dollars," ne soliloquized. "I could keep his money, and he would be none the wiser, but I'm once return it."

He was as good as his promise. Return. ing to the store with the money in his hand, "Lucky for you that I'm an honest man. You gave me nine dollars too much in making change."

I want only what belongs to me."

The greeer sulkily thanked him, and the citizen went his way, but in an hour or so be made another discount. It is a possible to the state of California, praying for the pardon of GEORGE WILLIAM's, convicted in the Superior Carried the state of California and the superior carried the state of th "Well, I guess you did, and here it is. he made another discovery. He found the one dollar bill and missed the ten.

"It was a ten I gave him, and the change was right," he gasped. "I must go to him He started for the grocery, hung around for a while, and then stated his case. 'You are a vile swindler, sir !" promptly eplied the grocer. "Oh, no; I'm simply a victim of a too honest conscience."

"You get out! I didn't like the cut of your phiz in the first place, and when you brought back the nine dollars I knew you had some sort of a game. Now, sir, you travel, or I'll call the police !" 'But I'm an honest man! I tell you there's a mistake here," protested the 'You promenade! I'm on all the little games, and you can't make a cent. Boy, call in a policeman." The citizen walked out and kicked lampposts and rubbed against baby carriages, and refused to recognize his best friends. He had not only paid over three dollars per pound for butter, but he had beaten aself all around. He rushed to a lawyer to see what he could do, and the lawyer
